NFSS MISSION STATEMENT

The National Finch and Softbill Society is dedicated to promoting the enjoyment of keeping and breeding Finches and Softbills to all interested parties, enhancing our knowledge of the proper care of these birds, encouraging breeding programs, and working with other organizations for the preservation of aviculture in this country.

Journal of the National Finch and Softbill Society 720 Live Oak Lane • Pinole, CA 94564 Published Quarterly by NFSS

Submitting Materials for Publication. All materials should be submitted to the editor, at editor@nfss.org. NFSS reserves the right to edit and/or reject all written, photographic, and advertising materials submitted. With the exception of advertising, deadlines are the 15th day of December, March, June, and September for the following issue.

Editorial Policy. NFSS affiliagted clubs have permission to reprint all articles and photos with the following exceptions: articles and photos with either a © (copyright symbol) or "All Rights Reserved" require the copyright owner's permission. All "Reprinted by Permission of" articles require written permission from the originating source.

Opinions expression or facts reported in articles and published in the Journal do not necessarily reflect the view of the Editor, NFSS, or the Board of Directors. Advertisements published in the Journal do not imply endorsement by the NFSS. NFSS assumes no responsibility for advertisers' claims or the quality of their products and services.

Journal and NFSS Dues. New memberships and late renewals (expired memberships) received by the 15th day of any month immediately preceding an NFSS Journal issue will receive four consecutive issues, beginning with the issue for the quarter immediately after they joined. For dues received after these cutoff dates, the first issue will be one issue later. Cutoff dates to receive the next published issues are as follows: the 15th day of December, March, June and September. If a member's dues remain unpaid beyond the twelve month membership period, said membership shall cease. Should a member's membership cease and be renewed at a later date, the membership shall begin at that payment date. To retain the membership number and related data, said membership must be renewed within (60) sixty days of expiration.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE
Rebecca Mikel

This Summer is Flying Past!

Plans for the 2017 NCBS are well underway and the NCBS Board have been busy bees with preparations for another fantastic event. Our event will continue to be hosted by the Pheasant Run Resort in St Charles, Illinois; our new date this year is October 26-28th. As with prior years, there will be over 18 divisions and thousands of birds of the highest quality exhibited. The National Event is also the gathering place for over 25 Specialty Societies and their members. And, to kick off the weekend, NFSS is once again hosting "The Afternoon of Aviculture," made available by the sponsorship of the Finch Society of San Diego, California. Please stay tuned for more details about this event and pay close attention to the announcements in this, and future, issues of the Journal.

While I currently serve as President for this society, I am also a member of the Board for the National Bird Show. As a member of that group, I attend their annual Spring Meeting and attempt to share relevant information with you from that meeting. Discussion at that 2 day meeting resulted in some Show Rules changes you will need to be aware of – IF you are exhibiting birds at the 2017 event. (Please feel free to contact me directly for questions, concerns, or clarification about any of this):

Rules 5 and 9 were revised after multiple requests to consider that NBS become a "Bred by Exhibitor" only show. The NBS Board considered all aspects of how this would affect the attendance and outcome of future shows. While the Board understood the logic of maintaining a breeder show, it also was sympathetic to those exhibitors just starting to show and does not wish to be exclusive. As a result, the following has changed to discourage buying birds just to show and rewarding those that have bred their own stock. Rule 5 previously stated that entries have to be the bona fide property of the exhibitor for at least thirty (3) days prior to the show. This period has now been revised to 365 days prior to the show. Rule number 9 stated that all Division winners would compete for the upper level awards (Anchor, Song and Scannell). This has been revised to state that all Higgins winners will go on to compete for the upper level awards. This will help promote Bred and Banded as well as curb purchasing birds with the intent to show them. (Parrots and Finches are excluded from the "bred and banded by exhibitor" requirement).

Prior to the show there will be online purchasing available on the website. An online form, payment and new deadlines will be announced soon as well as instructions. This will aid in the lag between the deadline and the show and allow items to be prepared in advanced and estimated more efficiently.

Those of you who are current NBS members received the letter regarding the new Judge selection process. This will go into effect in 2018.

Pheasant Run is currently putting together a perpetual contract for NBS. Details will be finalized soon and NBS will have a permanent date and it looks like it could likely be in November. Look for details to come soon.

Divisions will assume some additional responsibilities. Those include; distribution of awards, verification of show report and data entry on the secretary spreadsheets etc. This means if we want to have a successful show, we're going to need more volunteers to help out pre/during/post show times.

If you are an NBS member - look to the upcoming NBS Newsletter for more detailed explanation of these items and more. I will be responsible to share this information on the NFSS yahoo and Facebook pages as it becomes available.

Happy Birding

Rebecca Mikel President NFSS

Welcome to the 2016 Census — now open! The National Finch and Softbill Society's Annual Census was started in 1984. Its purpose is to collect information about the numbers of each species kept in captivity and of those the number being bred. The results of the Census are available online and in the NFSS Journal.

The census is open to both NFSS members and non-members. Participants may choose to remain anonymous or to have their name included in the census to help those working with the same species to locate each other. Only NFSS members will have access to this information and only upon request. Please take a few moments to contribute to the NFSS Annual Census. Your bird counts should reflect what you had on December 31, 2016. Any birds acquired since that date should not be included in this count.

We have made many changes to the census. For those who have species with many mutations, we've made it easier for you. With species such as Gouldians, Societies, Zebras, simply list the total you have of each species. No longer will you need to list each mutation separately, making it much easier for you to count your birds. Any specie not listed can be listed under "Other" at the end of each section.

The closing date for the census is July 31, 2017. Your Data on your Birds and Region will be published in the journal. Your personal information (Name, Phone or Email) is for the Finch Save Director only to contact you should they need to.

Thanks to Paula Hansen and Charles Cook, who have put in countless hours of work on a new format for the online Census. We thank Roland Cristo for his generous donation for sponsoring this continued survey.

You can go to nfss.org/fss/8257-2/ to complete the Census online or complete this printed form and mail to:

What is Cuttlebone?

Susan Stieve

Squid's Relative Cuttlebone, also known as cuttlefish bone, is the hard, brittle, internal structure found in all members of the cuttlefish order Sepiidae. Cuttlebone is not an actual "bone" at all but rather a chambered. gas-filled internal shell used for buoyancy control these sea-dwelling creatures.

Cuttlefish are cephalopods, and are distant relatives of the octopus, squid, and nautilus. They can live 1-2 years and commonly grow 6-10" long. As natives to tropical and temperate ocean waters, they are commonly found along the coasts of Asia, Europe, the Mediterranean, Africa, and Australia; cuttlefish are not found in the Americas. Like octopi and some squid, all cuttlefish are venomous; they catch their prey -- such as crab and fish -- with their tentacles. As they pull the prey toward their beak, they use a venomous bite to paralyze it prior to eating. Cuttlefish are sometimes referred to as the "chameleons of the sea" due to their remarkable ability to rapidly alter their skin color at will.

Many Uses of Cuttlebone

The Greco-Roman world valued the cuttlefish for its "ink", a unique brown pigment the creature releases when alarmed. The word sepia, referring to a brown pigment in English, is derived from the genus name Sepia; today artificial dyes have mostly replaced natural sepia.

Cuttlefish is an important dietary item in some countries including Asia, Taiwan, and the Philippines. The cuttlebone is discarded when the cuttlefish is cleaned in preparation for eating; they are typically washed and sun-bleached prior to export.

Cuttlebones have historically been ground into powder and used as an antacid, added as an abrasive to toothpaste, used as an absorbent, and also as a polishing powder which was used by metalsmiths. It is able to withstand high temperatures, and is soft and easily carved, making it still a favorite today as a mold-making material for creating metal castings for jewelry and other small objects.

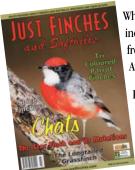

Why Give It to Birds

What good is cuttlebone to a bird? Primarily, it is used as a source of calcium and also provides a few other essential minerals birds require in their diets (see the chemical breakdown below). Cuttlebone is made of aragonite, which is a crystal form of calcium carbonate (CaCO3); it is also the major component of bird eggshells. Cuttlebone consists of 85% calcium carbonate, and cuttlebones are commonly used as calcium-rich dietary supplements for pets which may require supplemental calcium in their diets including not only caged birds but also chinchillas, hermit crabs, reptiles and snails.

Cuttlebone is a natural byproduct of the food industry. It may be a healthier alternative to provide supplemental calcium to your birds rather than mineral blocks, which typically are made with plaster of Paris (gypsum plaster) and may contain artificial dyes and flavorings.

Cuttlebone is typically affixed inside the cage near a perch where birds will chew on and ingest bits of it. Take care when placing cuttlebone in a cage; find a location where it will not be easily soiled. Cuttlebones are commonly available from pet stores as well as online merchants, in single packs or also available in bulk if you have a large flock. I've found new cuttlebones can have a unique unpleasant scent which fades over time. I have noticed that some of my birds like cuttlebones, others seem to prefer mineral blocks, and some don't appear to like either. Try them both and see what works best for you. A shaved or powder form of cuttlebone is also available online, I provide it to my finches in a separate food dish and they eat it faster than I can fill the dish!

Birds on seed diets can be prone calcium and other vitamin deficiencies, if you breed finches or other bird species you might consider providing supplemental calcium to them if you do not already. Calcium deficiencies can cause soft-shelled or thin-shelled eggs, and can lead to egg-binding in hens. Vitamin D3 is also involved in calcium absorption, so those who keep birds inside with no natural sunlight might also consider providing vitamin D3 to ensure proper calcium absorption. is true whether one provides birds with cuttlebone, mineral blocks, or other types of calcium supplements.

Modern liquid calcium supplements like Cal-D-Solve by Avitech, or Calcivet by Vetafarm contain both calcium and vitamin D3 for improved absorption of calcium.

Blue Dacnis — Jewels on the Wing

Lauren Ogburn

The Blue Dacnis (Dacnis cayana) is a beautiful, smart, and delightful species. Native to South America, they are in the family Thraupidae, which also includes tanagers and honey-creepers. Relatively small at 11 cm, they are one of the smallest Thraudidae.

Sexually dimorphic, the Blue Dacnis is a species in which the female is not just a drab, brown bird, but a stunning jewel in her own right. Both sexes take one's breath away with vibrant blues, teals, and greens, which only intensify with each molt.

Here at Sunbay, in Northeast Florida, there is a pair of Blue Dacnis in each of my indoor aviaries. They are compatible with many species; I have them housed with Gouldians, Violet-eared waxbills, Fire Finches, Purple Grenadiers, African Quail finches, and Forbes parrot finches. I do not keep more than one pair per aviary, as they will be aggressive to perceived competition for mates and nests.

Blue Dacnis are relatively hardy and healthy. My oldest pair is over seven years old; since they were wild-caught and imported, they could very well have a few more years left. In addition to keeping them in an ambient temperature of no less than 70 degrees Fahrenheit, they require substantial flight room, both horizontal and vertical. Bedding is orchard grass, which makes it easy to clean up their fruit-diet droppings, which can be messy to those used to keeping finches only.

Their diet is varied—it sounds complicated, but it really is not. Daily fresh fruit is a must. These birds will get hypoglycemic and perish if not fed the proper diet. Favorites are papaya, oranges, pears, watermelon, cantaloupe, mango, and bananas, organic if possible. Insects are also a requirement. Here they get a constant supply of live mealworms and live wax worms every day. A "softbill" diet is provided; I get mine from Paradise Earth.

The Dacnis show a definite preference to their food being offered up high; they are not seen on the bottom of the aviaries often. They will also pick at chitted seed, greens, and egg food. Clean, fresh water, for both drinking and bathing, is also a must. These birds absolutely adore baths! Every single day, they are the biggest splashers in the aviaries, obviously having a great time in their daily soakings.

Blue Dacnis male wet after bath

These birds have a delightful "twisp-twisp" sound, which you will hear first thing in the morning, and they are the last to roost for the night. They are often seen hanging upside-down from the top of the aviary and the natural tree branches provided for them. They are curious and not overly fearful of humans. They can be "tamed" to take food from, and land on, your hand.

The Dacnis' courtship and breeding ritual is fascinating. The male will display by rapidly pointing his beak straight up, showing off his striking black bib. The hen will reciprocate, and both will vocalize. The courtship can be alarmingly aggressive for short bursts. The hen will "taunt and tempt" the male into chasing her. The male will eventually mate with her, sometimes after chasing the hen to the ground. After a rest, the process will repeat, sometimes for hours.

The preferred nest is an open canary-type bowl-shaped nest, placed high. The hen seems to be the main nest-builder. The nest is not particularly built up or well cushioned. They use coconut fiber, sisal, and fine grasses. On average, two light-tannish/bluish eggs, with darker speckles, will be laid. The hen alone incubates, while the male will bring her food. Hatching will take place in about 14 days.

A future article will address hatching through adult-hood.

Long Live Finch Society of San Diego

Sally & Vince Huntington

An acknowledgement is long overdue from NFSS for the annual support we get from the Finch Society of San Diego County, California (FSSDC). For the past 4 years, FSSDC has borne the costs for us of the "Afternoon of Aviculture" (AOA). The AOA is a bird-related 3- to 4-hour workshop for those attending the National Bird Show (NBS), currently held at The Pheasant Run Resort, St. Charles, Illinois. These workshops consist primarily of presentations by hand-picked avian experts, including officials from zoos across the U.S., representative speakers from major bird food manufacturers, and avian veterinarians. These experts provide reports on various avian-related research and study projects from around the world, and the latest from the Judges' Panel of NFSS.

Who is the FSSDC and why do they provide this relatively expensive support of NFSS, costing approximately one thousand dollars annually?

It's 1973 in San Diego, California. A family has a few questions about a pair of small birds they had bought to brighten up their lives: Zebra Finches, the little seed-eating birds from Australia. They cost $3.50 complete with a cage that fit nicely in the kitchen. They soon realized there was nowhere to turn for routine or common bird information. The Zoo people seemed too busy to answer their questions as were the veterinarians and there's no Internet yet.

A friend suggested they look at the Want Ads section #845 of the local San Diego Union newspaper. Seems bird Q&A had found their way to section #845 over the years. Our family found four bird articles in that section that day: two "birds for sale," a cage for sale and someone asking to meet to discuss birds. These first phone calls first became the bird people, then eventually the Finch Society of San Diego County.

Co-founders of FSSDC, Marilyn Dixon, Doris Morgan and Bertha Scroggins became intrigued by the idea of an organization that met regularly in the interest of its members avicultural needs. Pulling together every name they could think of, they mailed over 100 invitations to meet on a particular September, 1973 afternoon. Anticipating ten or twelve interested people, they were amazed when 68 came to the meeting.

Successful Club Creates Education for Bird Enthusiasts

At one point in those early years, they boasted a membership of 355, including members from Japan, Europe, nearby Mexico and throughout the States. (They currently have 142 members.)

After a dozen years of gaining experience, FSSDC published a book (Let's Talk Birds- a guide to raising birds in San Diego County). FSSDC members wrote informal chapters on what they knew best about birds. The 193-page book, though somewhat outdated now, is still a major source for novice bird lovers. For instance, they defined the care and feeding differences between the seed eating "finch" and the more omnivore "softbills." Members experimented with growing mealworms and providing fruit flies for softbills, and ways to minimize the waste of bird seed that seems to come with the manner in which finches feed.

Ruth Schlomer wrote about diet tips and the difference between sprouted and unsprouted seeds. William Toone and Bill Guyett wrote about the daily environment and how the length of days and nights affect breeding. Darel Cavender contributed tips on foster parenting, while Alice Kramer shared knowledge in raising the softbill Button Quail.

Other members began building breeding cages, and still others concentrated on building wind, rain and wildlife -control aviaries whereby finches and softbills could survive outdoors in the mild San Diego climate. They established committees to study which flowers, bushes and shrubs best served birds for nesting, security and temperature control. Another committee studied all aspects of water for birds; bathing, drinking, dampness, wetness and microbial growth, how water bred bugs that would be intermediate hosts for parasites. They explored the myths of sexing birds with string and swinging objects, by mouth markings, feather and color patterns, by the new DNA info, and more.

FSSDC soon became a major voice for finches and softbills bird care. As with all national club organizations centering on raising and caring for small live creatures, membership started falling off as computers offered easy access to more and more needed information. Our own (NFSS) web site, Facebook, YouTube, etc. provide daily Q&A.

Over time, beginning with the clubs of the 1980's, it became obvious that members remained active for vastly different reasons. It was no longer just "Let's Talk Birds." A club's purpose was to identify and regularly address each of the varied avian-related needs of its membership. Their newsletters, the monthly speaker presentations, and their committee findings were expected to meet the various interests at a conscious level. Some members simply enjoyed the peaceful predictable social monthly meeting, a simple snack and bird-talk, while others became seriously interested in details of diet and temperature control for their birds. Some became devoted to competitive bird shows and the travel associated with making the numerous national bird shows and marts between August and late November each year. Some began identifying and publishing details of size, color and conformation of each finch and softbill breed. Others noted the international politics of birding (CITES) was developing. Organizations that were anti-bird and anti-pet care were popping up. Bird people were amazed that anyone would actually be against grandma having her little singing bird.

Today in the FSSDC

MISSION STATEMENT: The purpose of this Society is to join together individuals who share a common interest in collecting and breeding finches and softbills.

About the Club

Welcome to the Official site of the Finch Society of San Diego County (FSSDC) Serving Southern California Finch and Softbill Breeders since 1973. The FSSDC is for all aviculturists with a love for and special interests in all varieties of Finches and Softbills, from little Zebra Finches to giant Toucans. Our members represent all aspects of aviculture: conservationists, collectors, breeders, show exhibitors, veterinarians, and pet owners. Club meetings are held traditionally on the 4th Sunday of each month with topics representing the many subject's members find of interest; rare species conservation, aviary construction, hand feeding babies, nutrition and feeding tips, locating wanted bird species, identifying sick and unhealthy birds and whatever is topical. Once you join FSSDC, special benefits of membership are found in our monthly newsletter (mailed or on-line). It lists special events and the monthly speaker or program. There is a raffle or auction of birds and bird related items at each monthly meeting. Members get bonus raffle tickets for these monthly drawings. For those members who show up before the program begins, there is a free "early bird" raffle. Note: only club members may buy and sell birds from one another one hour before the monthly meeting. While there is a generous "snack" at each meeting, there is a once a year "free lunch", for members, at the annual Birthday meeting in September. We invite anyone with a love of aviculture to visit our club and become a part of this enriching community.

The Finch Society of San Diego County cannot exist without its members. As a small volunteer run organization, it is your interest, presence and patronage that makes the club the success it is. Membership is one of the primary ways in which the club raises funds put on the programming and events that make it so special. Though a local club, FSSDC sponsors a major annual education event, Afternoon of Aviculture (AOA), along with the National Finch and Softbill Society at annual National Bird Show. You may wish to take a turn on the board of directors.

Please consider the benefits of becoming a Club member, and please join this one of a kind club.

The EuroCage™ is based on a design used by many European bird breeders. The cages can be used singly or in stacks of three high, covering an entire wall or room. The cages are light, sturdy, have powdercoated fronts and durable white plastic sides. These opaque sides are an important part of successful breeding; they separate the pairs so they can hear each other without seeing each other. Each unit can be equipped with a fluorescent light to show the birds to their best advantage. Nestboxes can be placed on a platform inside the cages which assures that banks of cages can be neatly fitted together. The design of the cage allows for maximum hygiene with minimum effort, and the high quality aluminum tubing is designed for a lifetime investment. Any questions...
